WILDLAND FIRE DEPLOYMENTS

If your organization has or is planning to deploy workers to wildland fires in Colorado or in other states, here are some reminders for a work-related injury, illness or exposure:

- ✓ Even if the injured worker is not within traveling distance of the District's designated medical providers, the District is required to provide the injured worker with the Designated Medical Provider Letter to Injured Worker within 7 business days of any injury, illness or exposure.
- ✓ If emergency or after-hours treatment is needed the worker should be seen at the nearest medical facility and would then follow-up with the District's designated medical provider or an approved occupational medicine provider to be released to return to full duty status.
- ✓ If the worker needs to be seen by a medical provider, and it is not urgent, the District can contact me or a Pinnacol claims representative to get a list of Pinnacol contracted medical providers in that area.
- ✓ If a worker seeks medical attention while at a wild fire and is billed for the medical treatment the worker or District will need to forward the bill to the Pinnacol claims representative along with the claim number.
